Personalized Safaris

There is no ordinary day!

Tracking gorillas through misty, seemingly impenetrable forests can be an exhausting process as the paths are often slippery, entangled and wet. However, this effort is quickly forgotten the minute you encounter these beautiful creatures. They instantly capture your full attention with their acrobatic antics and cacophony of grunts, screeches and chest beating.

TOURS

GORILLAS THROUGH THE MIST - Tour A (4 Days)

Day 01

Upon arrival in Kigali you are met at the airport by our local representative and transferred to the hotel. Following a detailed briefing and an introduction to your English speaking driver guide, the afternoon will be spent on a sight seeing tour of Kigali City, a Genocide memorial site and Franco-Rwandan cultural centre.

Overnight at Mille Collines Hotel on a bed and breakfast basis.

Day 02

After an early breakfast, drive NW to Ruhengeri, the main base town for gorilla tracking (approximately 90 minutes drive) on a good paved road through the countryside with its beautiful terraced hills that are so characteristic of the rural Rwanda. Upon arrival, there is a briefing by the Volcanoes National Park's guides on how to behave in the forest and in the presence of mountain gorillas. You then enter the park for a gorilla trek which will take you until around midday depending on where you find them. Once the gorillas are located all fatigue is forgotten, as the experience is often described as being the most profound natural history experience in the world. It is important to take plenty of water. Cameras and plenty of fast speed film is recommended. It can rain at a few minutes notice, hence waterproof clothing is a good essential including zip lock bags for cameras and film. After the trek, lunch will be at Gorilla Nest Lodge. If time permits, visit the markets, villages and local communities or an optional visit to the little known but compellingly beautiful twin lakes Bulera and Ruhondo.

Overnight at Virunga Camp on a full board basis

Day 03

After breakfast take a short drive back to the Park Headquarters and meet with the excellent local guides and trackers who will give another talk on the etiquette of gorilla trekking. We then hike into the park for a second gorilla trek, visiting a different family this time. Again, the trekking can take from 1 to 6 hours and climb to altitudes in excess of 7,500 feet. The terrain is rough and at times muddy. Although the hike is physically demanding the beauty of the forest and surrounding scenery make the trekking worthwhile. Lunch at the lodge and the remainder of the day at leisure. If possible, there might be an afternoon guided tour to Dian Fossey's grave through this rich surrounding forest. (This needs to be paid for locally)

Overnight at Virunga Camp on a full board basis

Day 04

After a leisurely breakfast, enjoy the scenic transfer back to Kigali arriving late morning to connect with your onward travel arrangements.

PARKS

BWINDI IMPENETRABLE FOREST

Well-trained guides lead you to the site where the gorillas were encountered the day before and from here the tracking begins. The gorillas, whose continuous search for food requires a nomadic lifestyle, determine the duration of the hike. The trek can take between one and six hours, sometimes more, at elevations in excess of 7,500 feet and over rough terrain. Although the hike can be physically demanding, the anticipation of the exciting experience ahead is invigorating, and the beauty of the forest and its inhabitants are fascinating. When the gorillas are encountered, any fatigue is quickly forgotten. Observing a wild gorilla family in its natural habitat and on its terms is considered by many naturalists to be the most profound natural history experience in the world. Few who have had this rare privilege would disagree. It is important to recognize that these gorillas have only recently been habituated to tourists. Their curiosity is obvious, but they have only begun to grow accustomed to humans. Each strictly regulated 60-minute visit passes all too quickly, and you depart leaving the gorillas to their fragile existence. After time with the gorillas and a picnic lunch, you return to camp with hopefully a few unforgettable memories of a rare and wondrous experience. If the gorilla groups are relatively close, you'll also have the chance to hike nearby forest trails to obtain a better understanding of the forest and its other inhabitants. These hikes provide the opportunity to observe smaller primate species and regional, endemic birds.

KIBALE FOREST

Kibale Forest is one of central Africa's most researched and best-known regions. Of the eleven primate species of Kibale, most have been well studied and are therefore accustomed to human observation. Well-marked trails make the forest easily accessible. Today's explorations include walks into the rainforest in search of primates. Commonly seen species include red-tailed monkey, grey-cheeked mangabey and both red colobus and black-and-white colobus monkeys. As you walk the trails, it is important to remain alert, listening for the distinctive pant-grunts that signal the presence of chimpanzees. Chimps are abundant here, and there is a high likelihood of observing them as they make their nomadic treks along forest trails and forage for fruit in the canopy above. Your day in the forest is conducted at a leisurely pace. Black-and-white-casqued hornbill, great blue turaco, grey parrot and Narina's trogon are just a few of the many colorful central African birds you might find here. After lunch you'll explore a nearby-forested swamp that is excellent for viewing birds, primates and magnificent butterflies.

QUEEN ELIZABETH NATIONAL PARK

Game drives in Queen Elizabeth National Park include a launch trip of about two hours on the Kasinga Channel to view one of the largest concentrations of Nile hippopotamus in the world. In addition to these giant semi-aquatic mammals, the launch affords unique opportunities to view a host of other mammals and birds as they come to the water's edge to drink or bathe. Birding from the launch is excellent as QENP is one of best birding parks in Africa, with over 560 recorded species and a record of 296 bird species seen in one 24 hour period. On game drives, you'll see that the kob occur in their thousands, and you'll expect to see Defassa waterbuck, bushbuck, African buffalo, topi, warthog, and herds of elephants as well. Giant forest hog are fairly common, and lion and leopard are by no means rare.

VOLCANOES NATIONAL PARK - Virungas Conservation Area

The Volcanoes Park, on the Rwandan side is definitely the best place anywhere to go gorilla tracking while also supporting a number of other localised mammal, bird and plant species. This 13000 hectare national park protects the Rwanda sector of the

Virunga Mountains, a range of six extinct and three active volcanoes which straddle the border with Uganda and the DRC. Between 2.500 and 3.500m in height, where an average annual rainfall of 2000mm is typical, bamboo forest is interspersed with alpine moorland, grassland and marsh, a landscape dominated by other worldly giant lobelia and senecio plants. In this park, there are four different gorilla families (Sabyinyo with 113 members, Amahoro, 17 members, Group 13 with 9 members and Susa, 37 members)
